DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-33 are pending in this action. Claims 1-33 are presented for examination. This office action is in response to the filing dated 04/07/2000.

Information Disclosure Statement

2. The references cited in the IDS, PTO-1449, Paper No. 4, have been considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-3, 6-14, 17-25, and 28-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goldberg et al. (US 6430556B1) in view of Chan et al. (US 5339419).

With respect to claim 1, Goldberg discloses modifying the query to replace one or more selected with a false clause, (col. 2, lines 36-col. 35).

Goldberg does not clearly show a false clause.

Chan teaches the Hpcode-Plus instructions between the CEXP and the matching CSEP Hpcode-Plus instructions represent the true clause of the conditional evaluation. The Hpcode-Plus instruction between the CSEP and the matching CEND Hpcode-Plus instructions represent the false clause of the conditional evaluation. Both the true clause and the false clause must either result in zero or one item being pushing onto the expression stack, (col. 19, lines 11-35). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Goldberg by including the Hpcode-Plus instructions between the CEXP and the matching CSEP Hpcode-Plus instructions represent the true clause of the conditional evaluation. The Hpcode-Plus instruction between the CSEP and the matching CEND Hpcode-Plus instructions represent the false clause of the conditional evaluation. Both the true clause and the false clause must either result in zero or one item being pushing onto the expression stack, as taught by Chan, so the users can retrieve useful and desirable result information.

Goldberg further disclose executing the modified query with the false clause, (col. 2, lines 36-col. 3, lines 35, and col. 3, lines 46-col. 4, lines 6); and retrieving metadata from the result set obtained by executing the modify query, (col. 3, lines 46-col. 4, lines 6).

As to claims 2, 13, and 24, Goldberg further discloses the query comprises a select statement, (col. 2, lines 36-45).

As to claims 3, 14, and 25, Goldberg further discloses the select statement is not a select into statement, (col. 2, lines 36-45).

As to claim 6, 17, and 28, Goldberg further discloses generating a list of modified queries, wherein each modified query has one or more selected clauses replaced with a false clause, (col. 2, lines 36-col. 3, lines 55); and executing each modified query until one executes successfully, (col. 10, lines 31-38).

As to claim 7, 18, and 29, Goldberg further discloses wherein a query executes successfully if it executes without an exception, (col. 10, lines 31-38).

As to claim 8, 19, and 30, Goldberg further discloses wherein the metadata comprises column type data for the result set, (col. 3, lines 46-col. 4, lines 6).

As to claims 9, 20, and 31, Goldberg further discloses generating a sqlj iterator with parameters having the java types, (col. 7, lines 40-49).

As to claim 10, 21, and 31, Goldberg further discloses generating a sqlj iterator with parameters having the java types, (col. 7, lines 40-49).

As to claim 11, 22, and 33, Goldberg further discloses determining whether the query requires a sqlj iterator, (col. 11, lines 50-55).

With respect to claims 12 and 23, the subject matter of claims 12 and 28 are rejected in the analyzed above in claim 1; therefore, claim 12 and 28 are also rejected for the same reasons as given in claim 1.

Art Unit: 2172

5. Claims 4-5, 15-16, and 26-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goldberg et al. (US 6430556B1) in view of Colby et al. (US 6199063B1).

As to claims 4, 15, and 26, Goldberg does not clearly show the selected clauses comprise where clause where clause.

Colby teaches the query in the precomputed view can be classified into several clauses: "select", "from", "where", and "group by", (col. 8, lines 8-51). Therefore, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Goldberg by including the query in the precomputed view can be classified into several clauses: "select", "from", "where", and "group by", as taught by Colby, so that the system provides for quickly and efficiently deriving and answer to a relational database query using materialized views where the materialized view definition may or may not exactly match the query.

As to claims 5, 16, and 27, Goldberg does not clearly show the selected clauses comprise group by e clause.

Colby teaches the query in the precomputed view can be classified into several clauses: "select", "from", "where", and "group by", (col. 8, lines 8-51). Therefore, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Goldberg by including the query in the precomputed view can be classified into several clauses: "select", "from", "where", and "group by", as taught by Colby, so that the system provides for quickly and efficiently deriving and answer to a relational database query using materialized views where the materialized view definition may or may not exactly match the query.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Filepp et al. (US 6275852B1) shows interactive computer network and method of operation.

Martizen et al. (US 5870719) shows platform-independent, usage-independent, and access independent distributed quote configuration system.

Lautzenheiser et al. (US 6125359) shows method and apparatus for identifying the coverage of a test sequence in a rules-base expert system.
